

THE EAGLE SCOUT AWARD

The Eagle Scout Award is the highest award that the Boy Scouts of America can bestow upon a young man. The Eagle Scout badge carries great prestige. It is awarded to those who are physically fit, mentally awake and morally straight; to those scouts who are self-reliant, who accept responsibility and leadership in the troop, who give service to their homes, churches, schools and communities, and who are good outdoors-men. Besides the requirement of earning various merit badges, which signify fields of study, the Eagle Scout must perform an Eagle service project that requires planning, development and leadership and is helpful to his school, religious institution or community. The scout must then appear before a Board of Review to be evaluated. Because the Eagle Scout Award is Nationally recognized, the scout's application must be submitted and approved by the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America. It is a fine moment in any young man's life, and the lives of all those near him, when he receives this cherished badge... the recognition of his achievements.
